Spritz. This is one of the most famous aperitivo cocktails in Italy. It was born during the german occupation of Veneto in the 1800s: german diplomats and merchants relocated in Italy, found the local wine too alcoholic for their taste; they started to add some water to the sparkling wine (spritzen in german means sparkling). Later on, they added liquors like Campari or Aperol.

In the 1990s the Aperol people launched one of the most effective marketing campaigns ever: the Spritz became the Aperol Spritz. The concept of afternoon aperitivo is one for Northern Italy, with cities and office workers. In the South, farmers do not tend to navigate to the bar or plaza as the sun sets. Each Italy city does have its own specialties.
